

As school starts, we are reminded of how important our child's education is. Unfortunately, we forget how important it is to teach our children about money management. Let's help our kids establish habits early on that will make managing their finances easier when they become adults.

1. TEACH YOUR CHILD TO SAVE.

Delay the purchase of an item your child wants and have them set a goal for purchasing it. Open a savings account for them.

2. TEACH YOUR CHILD TO COMPARE PRICES.

The next time you are at the grocery store, take a look at your child's favorite name brand cereal and compare it to the similar store brand. Show them how much money they can save.

3. TEACH YOUR CHILD HOW TO BUDGET.

Budgeting is something that even adults find difficult, but if your child learns the concept early, it will be a lifetime habit.

Times are financially tough. Let's help make our children's future easier for them.
